Message from Dan Jepsen, Forum Advisory Committee Chair

On behalf of the 2019 BC Natural Resources Forum Advisory Committee and C3 Alliance Corp., it is my pleasure to welcome you to the 16th Annual Forum. The Forum has become the most important and highest profile multi-sector event of its kind in Western Canada. The 2019 Forum hosts over 950 delegates from across Canada. The Forum's strong support from rural and urban communities is anchored by the participation of a vast contingent of First Nations leaders, federal, provincial, and local government leaders, representatives from over 100 resource development companies, and the service and supply sectors.

I would like to thank our dedicated Advisory Committee who guided the amazing program and secured almost 50 speakers. A warm thank-you to our generous sponsors, the Prince George Civic Centre and the many hotels, airlines and service and supply vendors for their hard work, dedication and commitment to making the Forum the success it is today. Thank you to all the delegates for attending, and we sincerely hope you enjoy the Forum.

Message from Premier John Horgan, Government of British Columbia

The BC Natural Resources Forum is a wonderful venue to examine the opportunities and challenges facing the natural resource sector in British Columbia, and I was most pleased to have attended and participated in the 2018 Forum.

It is a truly fantastic conference, allowing stakeholders, natural resource companies, community members, and all levels of government, be it provincial, federal, municipal, or Aboriginal, to gather and have constructive conversations in a non-partisan setting.

I would like to thank Forum Manager Dan Jepsen and the rest of the Forum Host Committee for all their hard work. I have no doubt that the 2019 BC Natural Resources Forum will be equally productive and invigorating.

Message from National Chief Perry Bellegarde, Assembly of First Nations

Welcome to the attendees of the BC Natural Resources Forum.

BC has set a progressive agenda when it comes to the recognition and acknowledgment of First Nations rights and title to the land and its resources. This is an important step towards building a stable, legal foundation for investment in the province. Many First Nations in BC have created strong and unique businesses by offering tourism services, local products, and enterprises based on Indigenous culture and local needs. First Nations have shown they are not against development if it is environmentally sustainable, contributes to local economies and employment, and does not infringe on traditional practices and land use.

The proper reconciliation of First Nations rights, title and jurisdiction will create a business environment that better serves investors and everyone in Canada. With the proper relationship in place, everyone in BC can get down to work building a better province for their future generations.

Message from Andrew Czornohalan, Operations Director, Power & Services, Rio Tinto BC Works

As the founding sponsor of the inaugural BC Natural Resources Forum in 2002 and the Patron Sponsor for the 2019 Forum, Rio Tinto welcomes you to this impressive gathering of community, First Nation, business and government leaders from across BC's natural resources sector. It is with the significant support, contributions and participation of everyone here that makes this forum the success it is.

In reviewing the 2019 program, many of the discussion topics parallel Rio Tinto's business focus in BC and globally, offering the opportunity to think like 21st century pioneers looking to build a shared vision for the future. At Rio Tinto, we are building a sustainable business for our employees, shareholders, customers and host communities. To achieve this goal, you need to connect with great partners, engage with communities and foster a culture of innovation. As we embark on a new year, we have set our sights on achieving ambitious goals to become a company that northern communities are proud to host and British Columbians identify as a true pillar of our economy.

It is my sincere pleasure to welcome you to the 16th Annual BC Natural Resources Forum. The Resource Forum has become a major catalyst to showcase to the world what British Columbia has to offer with our diverse resource base, our transportation infrastructure and our support structures. It has been amazing to see the Forum grow into the most popular and successful networking event of its kind in BC. The Forum brings together First Nations, all levels of Government, the resource and service and supply sectors to learn first-hand the incredible opportunities that exist in our northern resource economy. On behalf of Northern BC and our proud, dedicated and hard-working northerners, we wish you an enjoyable and successful Forum.

All the best!

Message from Chief Dominic Frederick, Lheidli T'enneh First Nation

Lheidli T'enneh welcomes all Hereditary Chiefs, Chiefs, representatives from visiting nations and visitors to the 2019 BC Natural Resources Forum to their Homelands. Lheidli T'enneh has used the natural resources in its traditional territory for thousands of years. Natural resources sustained our communities and provided trade opportunities with other First Nations in the region. Today, Lheidli T'enneh is involved with the forestry, mining and energy sectors. Our involvement in these natural resource industries provides jobs for our community members and business opportunities for our companies.

Lheidli T'enneh welcomes the recent shift by governments and industry to engage us early and engage us often in conversations about resource use in our Homelands. However, there are still some situations where we have not been consulted properly. We encourage governments and resource industries to continue down the path towards reconciliation with First Nations, and we welcome every opportunity to discuss projects and proposals aimed at achieving economic reconciliation.

Our hope is for all visitors to the 2019 BC Natural Resources Forum to have a positive and memorable experience while you are in Prince George. We also encourage everyone to visit The Exploration Place Museum and Science Centre to learn more about our history.

WELCOME TO OUR TRADITIONAL TERRITORY "Ts'uhoot'li Whuzhadel".

Message from Mayor Lyn Hall, City of Prince George

On behalf of City Council and the citizens of Prince George, it is my pleasure to welcome you to the 16th Annual BC Natural Resources Forum on the traditional territory of the Lheidli T'enneh. This forum is a wonderful opportunity for stakeholders in our natural resource industries to learn, to network, and to participate in dialogues about current issues, challenges and opportunities.

It is an exciting time for Prince George as we strive to attract new business while supporting existing businesses. Our work to grow and diversify our economy reveals the wealth of opportunities available in forestry, bioenergy, oil and gas, mining, manufacturing and technology, and throughout our work we are committed to fostering strong relationships and understanding with the Lheidli T'enneh and our other regional and provincial partners and stakeholders.

If you are from out of town, I hope that you take advantage of the opportunity to explore what Prince George has to offer.
